

Board Game Report March 2026

There were eleven people at the board games afternoon in March. Table one with four people played Cascadia, while the other two tables - a four and a three - played Ticket to Ride. My table of three travelled round the USA with varied success, collecting points (or not). It certainly helps if you are good at geography (I am not) or have been there (I have not). Geoff won, guess who came last!

The four people on the next table were in Europe for the same game. We knew that because Annie was on it. Hazel won that game, and Clair won on the Cascadia table.

At three-thirty four people went for an early bath, which left two tables to play on. One table chose Skyjo, this included Annie, and guess which is the noisiest game we play! The other table played Bananagrams, less noisily, but Sue did her best, and won.

Altogether a pleasant and fun afternoon.

Jean Bartle