

4-6 Mile Walking Group - Romaldkirk, The Donkey Trail Tuesday, 9th May

There were 16 of us starting from Romaldkirk Green for this 6.5 mile walk. Initially we took the road past Heathercote to the donkey trail, a longish uphill start of almost two miles in total, but well worth it for the views. Then we headed along the track towards Botany turning towards Hury over fields which can be boggy but were quite dry. We stopped for a short coffee/lunch break, dropped down above Hury Reservoir and again turned into fields continuing on grassy paths past Lanquittes to West End farm; we followed their farm track, then took a meander back on the railway track to Romaldkirk, where we had been very kindly offered refreshments in Elizabeth's garden – a wonderful setting and delicious cake; the perfect end to a lovely walk, with fine to good weather all the way. What more can you ask for!
